Session introduction by Kona

Kona: Hi, good morning, Friends, I'm Kona Lisa Mahu with the Center for Planetary Management, and we've done our morning check-in. I'm here with Evan in the Philippines, Jacques in France, Juan in Venezuela, and Bob in Texas, I'm in New York, USA, and it's another bright and beautiful day on this blue-green planet. We have our celestial friends and guests at the Sea of Glass. We know they're always looking down on us. Find out more about that in our transmission. But now it's time to set aside our cares and the cares of the world and go into that meditative place where we can relax our minds, connect our spirits, and hear exactly from our celestial planetary team. So, Jacques, take it away.

Centering moment as a Team by Jacques

Jacques: Okay, thank you, So, before we receive some word from the Sea of Glass or anywhere else, quiet your body, quiet your mind, just relax. Breath in and out slowly.

We connect now with the universe and we receive this beam of light, coming from the center of the universe, we can call it the Divine Love. It's a healing power, a healing light, relaxing of our body and our mind. We receive this light on our crown chakra, down through all our chakras, down to the earth. Feel the relaxation of this love.

And as human, we connect as usual, started by our heart line clockwise around the room collecting those missing today on the call, but still part of our team. And we connect our mind line counter-clockwise, so as human, we are encircuited as one, one heart, one mind and one soul to receive our Celestial Management Team from above.

So Melchizedek team: Asiah, Ashti, any other celestial being who want to join us. We know they are often on the Sea of Glass, and we salute our friend from there. While watching us, they know the timing. Because when we meet twice a week, and they are with us twice a week. We salute also our friends from the Stellar planets. Because we realize that they are sharing so many messages these days, were in compliance with the certain values. We stay silent. Three minutes.

Present: Kona Mahu, Evan Mariano, Bob Wilson, Juan Ramirez, Jacques Reverseau

Opening Prayer by Bob

Bob: 6:32:51
Dear Eternal Father, we come here as a small group together before you. We love and respect you and appreciate all you do for us. And we have your guidance and direction for our magazine. May you please inspire our hearts and minds that we may do those things that are pleasing to you. Father, we thank you so much for your sons and daughters, who mean so much and do so very much in the universe for all of us. Appreciate them as well and thank them for many things they have helped us with in our dear lives. Along with our gratitude, we want to send you our love and appreciation. And thank you for the many things that… We have in our lives that make our lives more easy to live. And appreciate those many things that are shared through other people on this planet that work so hard and diligently to keep us functioning well and doing well. Say these things in the name of the Son, Christ Michael, Christ Jesus. Amen.

Jacques 16:34:17
Thank you, Bob for your prayer. I wonder if Evan you will receive a message, so if you have a message, feel free.

Evan: 16:34:41

I'll try to get a clear message, because… Yes, I feel I have Sondjah.

Main Addresses with Sondjah

1. Beyond Material Success: Bringing Peace, Hope, and Purpose to the World

Sondjah: Good evening, my Friends. This is Sondjah from the Sea of Glass. I'm very happy to see each and every one of you right where you are, in your own countries thinking, observing the Father. So, what kind of people are you? You would be considered a class of a little nutty in your world, or not the usual kinds of people that you often see. But that is because you have given yourselves and your wills to the Father.

You see, in your world there is such a thing as choice and decision-making, and many people do not want to deal with anything other than their material lives, and this is the cause of very many troubles in the world. And many… many unsure, many doubting individuals who are not aware that there is someone who loves them and watches over them. As we are all creatures under this one family of the Universal Father, and the First Source at the Center who loves and cares for each and every one of his creatures.

It is very difficult to find people like you. Because you are soft-hearted, you are… yep, Golden Hearts, Good Minds, Bright Minds, and this is the reason why you are here. You're not… you're not the usual kinds of people or product, just to be materially successful in life. Success in life means a lot of things to a lot of people especially in countries or nations that are considered wealthy or ahead in development.

But that is not the case, because life is short, temporary. And there is something in life that is meaning and purpose other than material goals and directions. So, this is where trouble starts, when people do not see that there is a purpose in their lives. They have to seek it, seek the truth, see the way very hazy and big a life that they see every day that is full of chaos, sometimes not very peaceful.

There is so much unrest in many parts of the world, in your world and you are here to bring them peace. You're here to spread the hope and give them your own spiritual experience, so that they can come forward and see something better, see something different, see something that they have never heard before. So, we commend you for your work. We thank you for your efforts and your diligence. And you will see how important your work will be in the future. Thank you. This is Sondjah, good evening and good day.

Group Dialogue & Discussion with Sondjah

Jacques: Thank you, Sondjah. Thank you, Evan. I don't know if Sondjah like us to ask questions today… Yes.

2. Prayer Beyond Religion: An Exercise of Faith and Connection to Spirit

Kona: 16:39:37

I have a commentary and possibly a question for Sondjah. Thank you, Evan, thank you Sondjah. As we were in our meditation space, I was thinking that it's a conversation I've wanted to have with the team about our opening practice, which is to have the meditation. We practice stillness, but then we also follow it with a prayer and a gratitude.

And many people may not understand why we would pray, being a non-religious group.

And so, Sondjah, my question is: How do you perceive prayer from the Sea of Glass, or from that perspective, and can you give our readers, our watchers, our listeners, an idea of what prayer looks like, or is understood to be from your perspective. Thank you.

Sondjah: 16:40:41

This is Sondjah. Thank you for your question. Praying is so very important for humans and mortals to connect to their spirit, to connect to the Indwelling Spirit [Thought Adjuster], so that's the only verb is to pray when you want to connect to spirit, when you want to communicate, or you want to speak to someone other than your family, or your friend, someone who is not here, someone… someone you cannot see.

Because that is faith. Faith connects you to spirit. Praying is faith exercise. So how can you exercise your faith if you don't reach out to Spirit, if you don't speak your minds or express yourselves, express your deep anxieties, fears…, whatever it is that you'd like to tell someone else, other than who you see.

Many people, more people believe in God than probably those who don't. There are many doubters and what you call those who have no inclination to believe in some unseen force. And they only see the [material] world. So this faith kind of reaching out is always a prayer. And that is a very beautiful communication activity of every individual in your planet. And every prayer, believe me and believe this too; is answered, and the answers will come to you. Maybe not as you expect them, but it will come. Believe in that. Have faith in that because there is someone always hearing you. Take the spirit of truth, of Jesus of Nazareth, the Master, the Creator Son, [who] came here as Jesus, he showed you how to pray the "Our Father". It is a beautiful prayer. That is a faith prayer. It is not often said anymore. Thank you for your question.

3. Beyond Gender: A Personal Relationship with the First Source and Center

Kona: 16:43:56

Thank you so much Sondjah. I appreciate that explanation and how it's received as a communication from our spirit. The second part of that is, I believe it's written in the Urantia Book, but we acknowledge the First Source and Center as Father, and I've heard that is expressed, we're told, is because as human beings, we understand a Father figure as one who cares for a child.

But that does not necessarily mean our First Source and Center is gendered like we think of as human beings. Could you speak to that for just a moment?

Sondjah: 16: 44:41

Thank you, yes. The Universal Father has what you call a masculine image because mortals, human beings, look at the family hierarchy where the father is the topmost individual in any group or family. So, it is a father-figure thing. But God has no gender. He is both Father and Mother to his children.

God has no gender: He is both Father and Mother to his children.

It is very difficult to explain the makeup of the Universal Father. But He is there, in you, and you can always communicate with Him through your Thought Adjuster. The Thought Adjuster is the personification of the Father/Mother, or God. You can also call it “It” or “That.” It really doesn't matter. As long as you have a personal relationship with your Creator, as a son or daughter, and you believe in faith that you are a Son or Daughter. That is what is very important.

So, the gender thing is not important. Try not to get stuck on that as a father figure or a mother figure. The Creator is much, much more than that. He's a loving, individual personality. Try to have that thought in your stillness meditations, and perhaps you will be able to visualize the Universal Father or the First Source of the Center. He is your source; He is the Center of all things. Thank you for your question.

Kona 16:47:15

Thank you so much, Sondjah, and thank you, Evan. Jacques, I see your hand. One moment. To follow up this thought, I know that there are so many people on the planet that for whatever reason they struggle or have angst with a father figure for God. And so, I just wanted anyone out there who is struggling with that to understand that the Creator of the universe is not gendered, but we use that sometimes as a way of understanding, because we are mortals. But if you didn't have a good relationship with your [human] father, it might not be a good figure for you.

There's the mother figure, or there's no gendered, but the First Source and Center is, as Sondjah says, a personality that extends this amazing love and grace towards each and every one of us.

And there's also the aspect of, worship is innate within us towards the Father figure or towards the First Source and Center. It's one of those things, like the 7 core values that are [embedded] in our DNA. And it's even been noticed and documented how animals, they will sit and face like the sun or the warmth and extend their hands as if they're in meditation just to be present in spirit. And so, it goes even beyond our humanity, but it's extremely important that we wanted to share, why do we turn and connect through meditation, followed by prayer. It's acknowledging First Source and Center for us in spirit, so that we could gather in spirit, and communicate with each other in spirit, and with our Thought Adjusters. And then also, gratitude, we'll talk more about gratitude on another day, how gratitude is a universal principle in the universe.

And I think Jacques may have a question for Sondjah. Please go ahead.

4. Worship: Loving the Father and Freely Offering Our Will

Jacques 16:49:19

Yes, it's a follow-up question to your first question about prayer. For our audience, we distinguish prayer from worship. So, in the same vein, comment about worship and why it is important to worship the Father?

Sondjah: Thank you for your question, this is Sondjah. Worshiping the Father, it's just like little children bringing little treats, flowers and gifts to the Father. It is not the usual prayer, asking or requesting for anything.

Worshiping is more like just giving the Father what you have in your little hands. It is not really praying. It's just being with Him, just adoring Him, just being with Him, just communicating, telling Him that you love Him, that you know him and that you want to be with Him. It is not asking for anything. Those are the things little children do. And that is a very fundamental thing of worship.

It is not anything else than that. It is what you can give from the bottom of your hearts. And most of the time, as an adult, but not as little children, you give your free will. That is the only free gift that you can give the father that is any meaningful and real gift: something that you present from yourselves, your own decisions from your own minds, from your hearts, from deep within you. That is worship. Thank you.

5. Sharing the Light: Helping Others Deepen Their Relationship with God

Jacques 16:51:37

Thank you, Sondjah. As you know, this team is willing to promote all these keywords: prayer, worship, gratitude, so that people - And you said, that's the good news, that there are many people knowing God, but they don't really know their relationship with God. So, we see this magazine as a possibility for them to have this knowledge, to learn from us, and also to learn from many other websites who are line and working for Christ Michael, the Correcting Time plan. So, thank you so much Sondjah, for your words and your lessons today.

Sondjah: You are welcome, and every one of you is welcome. Remember that you are the light of this world. Your lights, individual, as a group, will be seen by many, many others people. Don't worry about anything or anyone or any remark that is not good, that will put you down, because you are doing so much good, and your efforts are recognized by us, by a whole team of Celestials, and we love you all. God bless you all. Thank you.

Kona 16:53:20

Thank you, Evan. Thank you, Sondjah. Thank you for a remarkable, powerful transmission from Sondjah today. It just really has touched my heart. It's been a subject that I've been wanting to discuss with the team and with the Celestials for a long time to give our readers, watchers, audience, this perspective on why we do come together, and why we pray, and how worship is innate. So, what a beautiful message from Sondjah to back that up. I'm going to give this a pause. Alright, Juan. You have great material for the next video. Wow, thanks, Evan.

Group: Yes, a very good transmission

Group Dialogue – Discussion Part 2

6. Receiving in Trust: Personal Experiences of TRing and the Light of Community

Jacques 16:54:19

Now, when I look at you, Evan, while you are TRing, with the background of beautiful nature behind you. You seem so peaceful, very peaceful. So, I don't know, maybe you can explain us: How you feel? How you receive this message? Even for our audience reading this as a Part 2 – Group Discussion. How do you feel during this transmission, and there Kona, probably you can do the same after. Because you were so peaceful today.

Evan: Well, Jacques, I have no explanation because I really don't even know what I say after. And then when I sometimes read your transcript, I said, oh, did I say that? I don't remember those… So, I can't say really, I have no idea what your questions will be, what the answer will be. I just trust that Sondjah will do it for me. I guess it's trusting in our celestial team and giving them the way. I always tell myself, okay, you get out of the way. I try my best to get out of the way. Besides, I have nothing to say. So Sondjah comes through when it's like that, I think.

Jacques: Oh, thank you Evan, this is beautiful. You are very humble, and this is very beautiful. And Kona, probably you can also share your experience about TRing, because we often see you with tears on your eyes during some messages you receive from Christ Michael or Mother Nebadonia or even other Melchizedeks.

Kona: Yeah, it's very powerful, and like Evan says, you know, it's peaceful. Sometimes you know, as it's coming through, I'm cognizant of what's coming through in the moment, but like she says, I don't… I don't know what's going to… what's going to come through. I know some TRs like to get a message ahead and share, but that doesn't - It's not usually the case for me.

And depending on who's coming through, it's, as you say, with Christ Michael or Mother Nebadonia, it's particularly a powerful presence, and yes, brings lots of emotion, because even with Evan's transmission today from Sondjah, I'm feeling just the power of the Spirit, just so full of gratitude, for our questions, for our discussion, for the subject, and so… Yeah, one doesn't know, and then there's sometimes, you know, I don't really know what's been said, and I have to go back and read it, too.

That's why I like editing, is because I can go back and reread it, and like, oh yeah, we should probably talk about that again, some of those things. So yes, it's the whole process, the stillness, the meditation, the prayer, which has worship elements in it, the gratitude, connecting with spirit is just a phenomenal experience. I wouldn't trade it for anything, honestly. It's… you know, I can't necessarily I mean, I can do some of it on my own, but there's something about also being with other people who are in a similar spirit.

That's why people go to church, right? They go to be with their community where they can share these experiences together. Because, you know, one candle is one candle, one lighthouse is one lighthouse. But if you get a whole bunch of people together, that's a lot of light. It's a lot of movement in the spirit, more Angels, more Guardians, there's more present, and the light just gets bigger. That's why people have noticed if there's a problem in a city, people will gather for prayer about that specific thing. And the consequences afterward are to diminish, it like crime, rampant crime.

And I even had the thought this morning to where I'm going in Mexico as a level 4 travel advisory in the state where my aunt and uncle live, and I thought, you know, I'm thinking, I'm going to visit family. It's very possible I'm going for a completely different reason, and Spirit has plans that I'm not aware of to bring a different presence to this state in in deep Mexico, right? Into a place that has been struggling with cartels, and all of this unrest.

And I'm like, I need to think about my trip a little bit differently, and be prepared to be in that place of deep spirituality, and be present to spirit, and who I might meet along the way, and maybe time at the cathedral, or local churches, or whatever that looks like. Because the power of prayer and the gathering of people, or the saints, as one would say in Christian circles, is phenomenal. It can't be denied. It's been shown over and over and over again that the gathering and praying together makes change. And Sondjah tells us all the time, we're having this ripple effect. A ripple effect in the universe, a ripple effect in our countries, a ripple effect in our planet.

Which brings me to the next thing that I've really been waiting to share with you an hour into our meeting. So, this will be a good transition spot. Pardon me. is I got an email from Daniel this morning. Pause.

Jacques 17:00:35

Yeah, Kona, I just want to conclude before you switch to the next subject. I would like to thank Evan and Kona, because for our audience is very important to understand that there is no mystery in TRing. It happens because you have the willingness to do the job. And for our audience to understand, when this small group start with the “three musketeers”, as you said, two years ago, we had only one TR, Daniel Raphael. Then Daniel withdrew, so we were left during two or three weeks without TR, which was quite amazing, I thought what on earth! And suddenly, Kona came and she was able to TR. Then Marthe came, she TR as well. Then Evan also joined, and she TR. So, you see Celestial managed very well when a group is dedicated to do the Celestial job, somebody will be able to receive some message.

That was my comment. And I stop here, and Kona, you can continue.

Kona: Thank you for that, Jacques, because that's another great mini message for Juan to put on video about TRing, right?

Jacques: Yes.

End Part 1

CPM Group Discussion Summary

Completing Planetary Pulse and Sharing Celestial Transcripts

Session Overview

The team reviews the remaining work on the introductory issue of Planetary Pulse and explores how personal outreach, companion articles, social media, and regular transcript notifications can help readers find CPM’s resources. The discussion leads to a practical review process for the first email letter and reconnects these activities with CPM’s broader vision and mission.

Note: text in yellow not to be distributed to external audience

Main Themes Discussed

1. Completing the Introductory Issue of Planetary Pulse

2. Making Celestial Names and Concepts Accessible

3. Personal Invitations and Wider Outreach

4. Companion Articles Across Multiple Platforms

5. Sharing Transmissions on Facebook

Friday Team - Session Thursday 15th Oct 2026

Present: Kona Mahu, Evan Mariano, Bob Wilson, Juan Ramirez, Jacques Reverseau

6. Launching Regular Transcript Notification Emails

7. Selecting Transcripts and Understanding the Audience

8. Refining the Letter and Establishing the Review Process

9. Reconnecting Daily Work with CPM Vision and Mission

10. Preserving Messages Through Trust and Cooperative Improvement

Short Summaries for the CPM Team

1 Completing the Introductory Issue of Planetary Pulse

Kona asks the team to identify what remains before the first issue can be considered complete. Priorities include refining headings and subheadings for search visibility, labelling graphics and alternative text, connecting unfamiliar terms to the CPM glossary, and correcting broken links and 404 errors. Companion articles remain important for outreach, while material for the second issue is being collected separately. The team does not establish a final completion date or an exhaustive checklist.

2 Making Celestial Names and Concepts Accessible

Juan explains that naming the Celestial speakers in video headings can help audiences become familiar with them. Kona emphasizes linking names and terms in video descriptions and magazine content to the CPM knowledge base, so readers can find explanations. Jacques acknowledges the extensive glossary linking Juan has already completed in published transcripts. This work supports reader understanding and the team's efforts to connect its different platforms.

3 Personal Invitations and Wider Outreach

Kona reports that Daniel's brother unexpectedly saw the magazine cover in his Google feed, which the team receives as an encouraging sign of wider visibility. Jacques urges members to send personal invitations adapted to friends, family, acquaintances, and potentially related spiritual groups. He suggests exploring reciprocal sharing with another group. Kona confirms that Substack articles already go to CPM's Facebook page and group, and asks Jacques to review those existing spaces before considering another group.

Friday Team - Session Thursday 15th Oct 2026

Present: Kona Mahu, Evan Mariano, Bob Wilson, Juan Ramirez, Jacques Reverseau

4 Companion Articles Across Multiple Platforms

Juan has prepared material in formats intended for a blog, Substack, and Facebook and placed it on Miro. Kona demonstrates how companion articles introduce or revisit magazine themes while linking readers back to the complete articles. Her stillness example connects to contributions by Evan and Jacques. The purpose is to remind readers about the magazine and provide several entry points into its content. Contributors should explicitly flag items on Miro when they want team discussion or editorial feedback.

5 Sharing Transmissions on Facebook

The team considers posting full Celestial messages or individual subject sections on Facebook, with links to the source material and an invitation to subscribe for transcript emails. Kona distinguishes this from the email letter, which would link to a complete transcript. Paid post promotion and a possible appeal for contributions or subscriptions are discussed as options, without a decision to launch a campaign. Time and staffing remain constraints; Kona would prefer Juan to concentrate on video production and transcript preparation.

6 Launching Regular Transcript Notification Emails

Jacques presents an introductory Constant Contact letter announcing regular access to selected CPM transcripts. The letter describes them as living bridges to Celestial presence and invites readers to approach them with openness, stillness, and discernment. Kona clarifies that its practical purpose is to notify subscribers of available transcripts and direct them to the CPM website. Jacques proposes a weekly rhythm, followed by shorter notices after the opening letter. The team distinguishes this subscriber communication from the magazine's broader public outreach.

7 Selecting Transcripts and Understanding the Audience

Jacques favors starting with recent transcripts that have been proofread and published, while noting that older messages can remain valuable. Kona asks whether selections should instead be guided by subject matter and points out that one email per week will not keep pace with two weekly sessions. No final selection rule is settled. The team also discusses whether to identify the TR in the email. Kona reports 95 active email contacts out of 105 total and says the current audience consists mainly of people already familiar with Daniel and the Urantia Book.

Friday Team - Session Thursday 15th Oct 2026

Present: Kona Mahu, Evan Mariano, Bob Wilson, Juan Ramirez, Jacques Reverseau

8 Refining the Letter and Establishing the Review Process

Kona helps Jacques replace a raw web address with descriptive linked text and recommends a clear session date and title, removal of unnecessary labels and repeated information, consistent Center for Planetary Management naming, and a contact option. Kona agrees to make a final edit and cleanup before the first mailing. For subsequent letters, Jacques will notify her when a draft is ready; she can review it and either send it or confirm that it is ready. Jacques expects to adapt future notices in response to audience feedback.

9 Reconnecting Daily Work with CPM Vision and Mission

Evan asks for a shared understanding of CPM's foundational vision so the team can cooperate with greater unity. Kona presents the existing website statements, which envision harmonious co-creation between humanity and Earth, guided by Celestial wisdom, human ingenuity, divine love, and the seven core values: life, equality, growth, quality of life, compassion, empathy, and love. The mission includes ethical education, Design Teams, Family Learning Centers, mentorship, sustainable practices, and regenerative planetary management. Kona explains how both the magazine and transcript distribution contribute to this larger purpose.

10 Preserving Messages Through Trust and Cooperative Improvement

Kona reaffirms the team's commitment to archiving, preserving, and disseminating its transmissions. She recalls guidance attributed to Machiventa that human mistakes should not prevent messages from being shared. Her editorial approach gives contributors responsibility for work aligned with CPM's purpose, with corrections made collaboratively when needed. The closing discussion reinforces an iterative Design Team process: create, review, improve, and repeat. Kona also notes that the following week's meeting schedule needs discussion because of her travel plans.
